Università Bocconi is pleased to announce the appointment of the Rector
and the Dean for International Affairs

Università Commerciale
Luigi Bocconi

Guido Tabellini Rector

Professor of Economics at Bocconi, he obtained his PhD at UCLA and has taught at Stanford University and UCLA prior to joining Bocconi in 1994. In Bocconi, he was closely involved with the launch of the PhD program in Economics and served as Director of the Innocenzo Gasparini Institute for Economic Research (IGIER) until 2002, at which time he became President of the Institute. In 2003, he was named an honorary member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and in 2007 he became President of the European Economic Association.

He has been consultant to a number of institutions, including the IMF and the Italian government. He sits in the editorial board of a number of scientific journals and in the scientific advisory board of several international research centers. He is a regular columnist of the daily Italian newspaper // Sole 24 Ore and has published op-eds in many international newspapers.

Professor Tabellini is an accomplished scholar who has a strong research-based curriculum with interests spanning a wide range of issues and analytical methods. The underlying theme throughout the majority of his work is the positive and normative analysis of economic policy. He is a member of various research centers including CESifo (Munich) and CEPR (London) and is a fellow at the Econometric Society.

In 2003, he received the Y. Jansson medal which is awarded by the European Economic Association to the best European economist under the age of 45.

Fulvio Ortu Dean for International Affairs

Professor of Financial Mathematics at Bocconi, he obtained his PhD in Economics at the University of Chicago. Prior to joining Bocconi in 2002, he has been a faculty member at the Marshall School of Business of the University of Southern California, at Columbia Business School and at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. In Bocconi he led the start-up of the PhD School, that administers all the PhD Programs offered at Bocconi, and has served as its Dean from the inception.

Professor Ortu is an expert in the area of quantitative finance and insurance, in which he has published extensively. He is a member of the American Finance Association, the Western Finance Association and the Econometric Society.
